COURSE DESCRIPTION
The Inaugural Pulmonary Update Conference: Practical Topics for the Primary Care Provider will present both common pulmonary problems confronting the primary care provider as well as emerging areas that these providers need to be aware of. Educational sessions during the conference will address the knowledge and performance gaps of the target audience in the complex areas of screening for lung cancer and diagnosis of pulmonary disease, providing expert guidance for the management of abnormal testing results. Specific attention will be paid to the appropriate approaches to vexing cough syndrome, community acquired pneumonia and cryptic dyspnea and its role in vascular disease. The conference features a keynote address on sleep disorders by Dr. Naresh Punjabi, Professor of Medicine and Epidemiology at Johns Hopkins. A key feature of the conference lies in the round table discussion, which will provide the opportunity for in depth discussions on how the information presented at the conference can impact participant competency and their patient care processes. This section also includes a significant opportunity for audience members to interact with program faculty and discussants.

COURSE OBJECTIVES
• Improve the initial evaluation of patients presenting with a variety of common respiratory illnesses.
• Improve the office-based use of pulmonary function tests in patients seen in a primary care environment.
• Develop evidence based strategies for implementing a plan of care in the face of abnormal test results.
• Review current guidelines for the screening, diagnosis, and management of CAP, vexing cough, sleep disorders, solitary pulmonary nodule, abnormal chest X-ray, and pulmonary hypertension.
• Understand the importance of managing patient expectations and develop strategies to communicate with patients about their expectations relating to the treatment of chronic conditions.
• Identify the most appropriate pharmacotherapies in treating various respiratory conditions.
• Understand the implications for patient outcomes of under- or over-treatment of various respiratory illnesses.
• Assess their individual practice in light of the information and discussions during the course, and identify specific strategies to implement as part of a continuing improvement process for their practices.
